

Hot Potato

This traditional game is called “Hot Potato”. The rules of the game are simple: You use an object as a hot potato, and you throw it to another player. If that player catches the object and he/she holds it more than three seconds, it is game over for him/her. If he/she does not catch the object, it is game over again. The goal of the game is to pass the object to another player in less than three seconds. This involves fast thinking and good reflexes. Here is a sketch representation of the game:
